TIPS ON HOW TO SHOW YOUR DOG – FOR THE NOVICE

Before the Show:

1. Practice trotting your dog beside you on your left side, in a triangle and also in a circle. The dog should trot and not break into a gallop. The judges will be wanting to see how your dog moves at a trot.
2. Practice having your dog standing square on all four feet. Have someone walk up to your dog and run their hands over its body and head. If your dog will stand still for this, it will be great! But don't stress if you can't get it to stand perfectly still. The judges understand and will not penalize you or your dog. This is the first conformation show for the breed and it is supposed to be FUN!
3. Two weeks before the show, make sure your dog has no matted coat. If you decide to bath him/her, leave a week for the coat to settle back down before the show. If the coat is long, it should not be puffed up and poofy. If it is long it should hang freely and the waves should be defined, not fluffy. If you can't get it to settle down, spray all over with water from a bottle. This will settle it down again. If your dog is clipped off short, it is fine for it to be thoroughly brushed and fluffy and no points will be lost.
4. One week before the show, check your dog's ears and make sure they are clean inside.

Show Day

1. On the morning of the show, do not give your dog breakfast, unless it is a baby puppy. You don't want him/her stopping in the middle of the show ring to have a poop!
2. When you arrive at the show, get your exhibitor's number from the secretary and pin it on your shirt.
3. Stay close to the ring so that you will be ready when your class is called.
4. The dogs in your class will move into the ring in single file around the edge of the ring. The Steward will give you instructions and show you where you are to stand. You may speak to the Steward, but you may not speak to the judge, unless directly spoken to.
6. The Judges will ask you to trot your dogs in single file around the edge of the ring and will tell you when to stop. They will be watching the movement of all the dogs in the class from the side view.

7. When you stop, you and your dog can relax whilst the judges are going over other dogs in your class. When the judge is examining the dog in front of you and you are next, that is the time to have your dog standing square on all four feet ready and waiting.

8. You may either stand beside your dog, or crouch down beside your dog to show it off to the judge. Whichever is most comfortable for you.

Standing up to show your dog. You can hold his head if you want to help him stay still.	Crouching down to show your dog. This is easier because you are closer to him. You do not need to hold out his tail like in the picture.

What the Judges are Looking For

1. A happy healthy sound dog who has the main characteristics of the breed. When the dog is standing, the judges will run their hands over it to feel the bone structure and conformation. They will also be feeling for the correct non shedding coat and look at the teeth.

2. When the dog is trotting, the judges will be looking for the light footed athletic graceful movement characteristic of the breed. When the judges have examined your dog, you will be asked to trot him/her in a small triangle across the ring. This gives the judges a view of movement from the side, front and from behind. Good Luck to everyone, and above all.....HAVE FUN !!
